My 30-Day Calling-to-Action Plan

A practical, prayerful roadmap to move from what is on your heart to what you can do next.

This is not another set of questions to answer perfectly. It is a place to gather what you learned, make thoughtful decisions, and take one step at a time.

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

Set aside quiet time with God. Bring your three daily workbooks. You can complete these pages after the workshop and update them as you learn more. Use the feedback page during your VIP support session.

A reminder: You do not have to have all the time, money, or skills today. You can be resourceful, ask for wisdom, and make a responsible plan for what comes next.

Scripture for reflection: James 1:5 — ask God for wisdom. Proverbs 16:3 — commit your work to the Lord.

The reason I want to move forward is...

At the end of these 30 days, I would be grateful to have...

STEP 1

Gather What God Has Shown Me

Bring together the most useful discoveries from Days 1, 2, and 3.

DAY 1: One belief or fear I am choosing to challenge:

DAY 2: The time or space I can realistically make available:

DAY 3: Two or three paths I feel led to explore:

One question I still need to pray about or research:

STEP 2

Choose a Direction to Explore

You do not need a permanent answer. Choose an option worth testing.

Possible paths might include digital products, affiliate marketing, online services, or other models that fit your skills and goals. Compare actual requirements before committing.

My criteria	Option 1	Option 2	Option 3
Name of model
Time needed each week
Skills I need to learn
Likely startup costs
Fit with my strengths
Fit with my freedom goals

The option I want to investigate first, and why:

STEP 3

Identify the Skills and Support I Need

Separate what you already know from what you need to learn.

Skills, experience, or relationships I already have:

The next skill I need to learn to test my chosen direction:

How I will evaluate a training or mentor before paying (curriculum, fit, reviews, support, refund terms):

A question I can ask someone who has experience in this area:

STEP 4

Make the Resources Possible

Replace “I cannot afford it” with a wiser question: “How could I make it possible?”

Resourcefulness can mean setting a savings goal, selling unused items, using existing skills to earn extra income, finding a scholarship, sharing resources, or changing priorities. Protect money needed for essentials; do not rush into debt or a purchase to prove your faith.

The skill or resource I may want to invest in, and why it matters:

The estimated amount needed and how I will verify the true cost:

Five possible ways I could responsibly create or free up the funds:

One resourceful action I can take within seven days:

STEP 5

My 30-Day Action Map

Small, specific steps create momentum. Adjust the pace to your actual season of life.

WEEK 1 — Get clear: research the path, ask questions, and define the first skill.

My action: _____

When I will do it: _____ What I need: _____

WEEK 2 — Prepare: choose learning resources and identify a realistic funding approach.

My action: _____

When I will do it: _____ What I need: _____

WEEK 3 — Practice: take one small action that uses the skill or tests the idea.

My action: _____

When I will do it: _____ What I need: _____

WEEK 4 — Review: evaluate what you learned and decide what comes next.

My action: _____

When I will do it: _____ What I need: _____

The biggest obstacle I may face and my backup plan:

STEP 6

Prepare for VIP Feedback and Q&A;

Bring a focused question so your support helps you make a real decision.

Here is the path I am considering:

Here is what I have already tried or researched:

The decision I need help making is:

My most important question for the VIP session:

After receiving feedback, I will change or confirm this part of my plan:

STEP 7

My Commitment and Next Check-In

Finish with a decision you can act on, not a promise to do everything.

My first action in the next 48 hours:

The day and time I will protect for my next work session:

Someone I can ask for encouragement or accountability:

In 30 days, I will know I made progress if:

Closing prayer

Lord, give me wisdom to recognize the right next step, courage to take it, and patience to keep learning. Help me use my time, gifts, and resources well. Amen.

> Remember: Your next wise step does not have to be your final destination.
