How We Made 20% in 2 Months – While Most Investors Got Stuck

It's a classic story. A well-known FTSE 100 company. A stock that many investors hold in their portfolios for income. And five long years of underperformance.

But this time, something different happened. Our clients didn't sit through years of negative or flat returns. They didn't wait, hope, and watch the share price stagnate. Instead, they got in at the right time. And more importantly – they got out.

In just two months, we helped our clients lock in a clean 20% profit on Taylor Wimpey, with no stress and no surprises.

Let's walk you through what happened – and why 90% of investors probably missed it entirely.

The Background: 5 Years of Frustration

Let's be honest — Taylor Wimpey hasn't exactly been a dream stock over the last five years. From 2021 to 2025, the share price has seen more downs than ups. The overall direction? Negative. That's five years of holding on, collecting dividends, and watching capital slowly erode.

Even in the shorter term, it's been disappointing. Whether you held the stock for 1 year, 2 years, or even just the last 7 months, the capital return has been either zero or negative. The only thing you earned was the dividend — and even that was recently cut back.

That's why the timing of our entry was critical.

Our Entry: April 2025

We entered this trade on 9th April 2025. Our DIP system flagged the stock as a high-potential opportunity for a short-term bounce.

At that point, Taylor Wimpey was trading at £1.02 — around 20–25% below our fair value estimate. Technically, it had just hit a 12-month low and formed a classic Triple Bottom W pattern — one of our favourite reversal signals.

We rated the opportunity with:

- 84% DIP Score
- FTSE 100 safety (Risk Level 1)
- 2:1 reward-to-risk ratio
- And it was 20–25% below intrinsic value

Everything lined up. The downside was limited, and the upside looked very realistic.

Our alert to clients was simple:

"Taylor Wimpey: Entry range 99p–103p. Target 122p–125p. Stop loss around 90p. Risk-reward profile looks excellent."

No noise. Just numbers.

Our Exit: June 2025

On 12th June 2025, exactly two months later, we hit our price target.

The stock reached £1.22, and we advised clients to lock in their gains. The result?

- ✓ £20,010 turned into £23,912
- ✓ £3,900 profit after fees
- ✓ +19.55% return in 2 months
- ✓ No dividends needed
- ✓ No stress, no guesswork

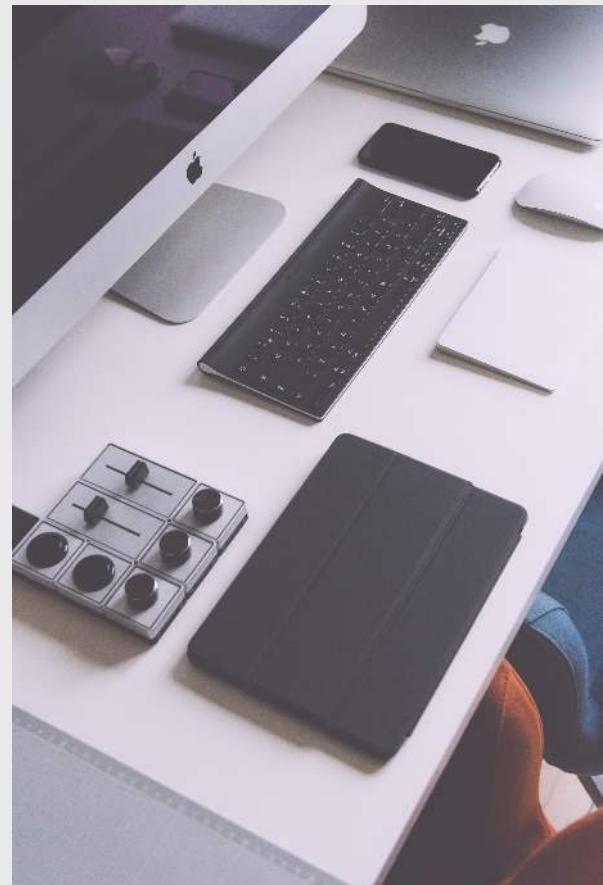

This wasn't a lucky bounce. It was a structured, research-backed trade, executed with confidence and discipline.

So Why Did This Work?

This is the part most investors overlook.

It's not just about what you buy. It's when you buy — and when you sell.

Most retail investors hold a stock like Taylor Wimpey for years, hoping for a recovery. But hope isn't a strategy.

We don't do hope. We do timing.

Using our DIP system, we look for very specific setups:

- Price at or near multi-year lows
- Technical signals like support levels and W-formations
- Clear entry zones based on statistical ranges
- Defined stop losses to manage risk
- Target zones to take profits when the opportunity matures

In this case, everything lined up beautifully — and our research gave clients the confidence to act.

How We Present Information

Let's pause for a second and explain something important.

The way we present information is part of what makes this system work. Our job is to give you the most relevant, most actionable data in a format that's easy to follow.

We don't do "technical" for the sake of it. Whether you're an experienced investor or just getting started, our format is simple:

Step 1: We do the research

Step 2: We uncover the opportunity

Step 3: We notify you by email and text

Step 4: You place the trade

No jargon. No fluff. Just clear signals and clear actions.

The Alert Levels

For every DIP trade, we provide clients with a Traffic Light Table to help them make quick, informed decisions:

- Green Zone = Entry levels (99p–103p)
- Blue Zone = Exit targets (122p–125p)
- Red Zone = Stop loss (90p)

This format lets you respond quickly — without second-guessing or overthinking.

You get the message. You check the levels. And you decide if it suits your risk profile.

The Deeper Research

We don't just pull numbers from thin air. Here's what the deeper analysis showed on Taylor Wimpey before the trade:

- Opportunity: After the dividend passed, selling pressure created a temporary drop — creating value below 105p.
- Technical Analysis: W-formation, strong support, and resistance lines all suggested a rebound was likely.
- Income: With no dividend due for a while, price had room to rise without payout drag.
- Risk Mitigation: 10% stop-loss zone protected against downside — strong reward-to-risk ratio.
- Exit Strategy: Clear price target at 122p–125p based on historical ranges.

This wasn't a guess. It was a full picture — analysed, assessed, and simplified.

Why Most Investors Missed This

Here's the truth.

Most investors didn't make 20% from Taylor Wimpey. In fact, most didn't make anything at all. Over the last 5 years, the chart shows capital destruction or sideways movement — not growth.

Why?

Because they held on too long. Or they bought at the wrong time. Or they never looked at the stock in the first place.

This is exactly what our system is built to prevent.

No more:

- ✗ Wasted time
- ✗ Wasted energy
- ✗ Missed opportunities
- ✗ Worrying
- ✗ Second-guessing
- ✗ Costly mistakes

We remove the noise, remove the emotion — and replace it with clear structure.

Final Thought: It's Not Just the Stock – It's the Strategy

Taylor Wimpey didn't suddenly become a great company overnight. It didn't deliver strong earnings or raise its dividend. In fact, it's the same stock it was a few months ago – and many would argue it's still struggling.

But we made 20% on it anyway. Why?

Because of how we traded it. Because of when we traded it. And because of the structure we use.

This is the power of the DIP system – and this is exactly how we help clients grow their portfolios, one smart trade at a time.

- ✓ 20% gain in 2 months
- ✓ In a stock that's gone nowhere for 5 years
- ✓ With no stress and no guesswork

That's the difference between hoping... and knowing.
