Terms of Use

To protect the integrity of our brand and to help you build your own unique business, we kindly ask that you follow these terms of use for all PLR and MRR products purchased from DigitalPLRBase:

Do Not Use Our Advertised Graphics

The cover images, mockups, and promotional graphics used in our store listings are strictly for our own marketing purposes and are not to be reused when reselling the product.

This ensures that each customer can present the product uniquely under their own brand.

Rebrand the Product Before Resale

To make the product your own and stand out from others using the same templates, we strongly recommend:

- Changing the layout, images, fonts, and/or color schemes
- Updating the title or adding a subtitle
- Creating a custom cover design

These small adjustments can go a long way in helping your brand feel professional and authentic.

Write Your Own Product Descriptions

Please do not copy or reuse our original product descriptions or sales page copy. Instead, write a description in your own words that reflects your branding, tone, and target audience. This builds trust and originality in your marketplace presence.

Use Your Own Ads and Creatives

We ask that you do not use our store listing ads or promotional materials to promote your resale version of the product. Feel free to create custom ads and graphics that reflect your branding and messaging style.

Remember: The goal of PLR is to give you a shortcut—not a copy-paste. Personalizing and rebranding helps you stand out, builds trust with your audience, and creates a strong digital presence.
