

How to Trade With House Money

The Beginner’s Funded Trading Blueprint for Apex Trader Funding

Apex Traders Club — Funded Trading Made Simple

What if you could trade real capital, keep your profits, and never risk your own money?

That’s exactly what Apex Trader Funding makes possible.

What Is Funded Trading?

Funded trading means you use the firm’s money, not your own.
With Apex Trader Funding, you can access accounts up to $300,000 once you prove you can follow their rules.

■ This means: no risk to your own money — and a high opportunity to earn.

How Apex Trader Funding Works (3 Simple Steps)

Step 1: Evaluation Account
Prove your discipline by trading within Apex’s rules: profit targets and trailing threshold.

Step 2: Performance Account (The Bridge)
Once you pass your Evaluation Account, you move to a Performance Account. It’s still simulated, but you keep 100% of your profits — a bridge to show consistency before Apex gives you real capital.

Step 3: Funded Account
Apex then transitions you to a live funded account, where you trade real capital and keep 90% of your profits.

Why Would Apex Do This? What’s the Catch?

You might be thinking: “Why would they give me money? What’s the catch?”

The answer is simple: Apex only funds traders who can follow their rules. If you can stay disciplined, the opportunity is wide open.

• They profit two ways: by sharing profits with successful funded traders, and from traders who break rules and lose accounts.

• The catch: you must trade with structure and discipline.

For emotional traders, the rules end their journey. For disciplined traders, the rules create the opportunity.

Why Most Traders Fail — and How to Avoid It

Many traders lose funded accounts simply because they don't follow the rules — but this is exactly what makes the opportunity so powerful. By following a structured plan, you can do what most don't.

The solution is trading with structure. A proven plan like the Apex MTF Breakout Strategy builds discipline into every step so you can survive and thrive.

Your Edge with Apex MTF Breakout
