

Teddy's Tablet Trouble!

Teddy loved his tablet. It could sing, draw, and tell him stories!

Every morning, he turned it
on before breakfast.

“Just one more game!” he said.

The tablet beeped. The screen went... blue!

“Oh no!” cried Teddy. “What happened to my tablet?”

Mama Bear came over. “Looks like it needs to rest, Teddy.”

“Rest? But it’s my favorite toy!” Teddy said sadly.

Mama Bear smiled. "Let's find fun the old-fashioned way!"

Teddy sighed, but he peeked inside. So many colors and shapes!

He built a tall block tower – taller than his tablet screen!

He colored a rainbow with his crayons.

He even read a storybook with Mama Bear.

“Wow,” said Teddy. “I forgot how much fun this is!”

Just then – beep! The tablet turned back on!

“Yay! It’s fixed!” Teddy cheered.

He opened his favorite game... but then looked at his toys.

He thought for a moment. "Maybe I'll play both!"

Mama Bear nodded. "That's the spirit! Balance is best."

Teddy made up a new game – tablet time and toy time!

He danced to tablet music while his toy drums kept the beat.

The more he mixed
playtime, the more fun
it became!

At bedtime, Teddy whispered, “Goodnight, tablet. See you tomorrow.”

Mama Bear smiled. "Sweet dreams, my smart little bear."

That night, Teddy dreamed of building towers that reached the stars!
