Billy dreamed of being a superhero,
but he could only fix things.

One morning, the school battery bus stopped working.

Everyone worried they would miss the class trip.

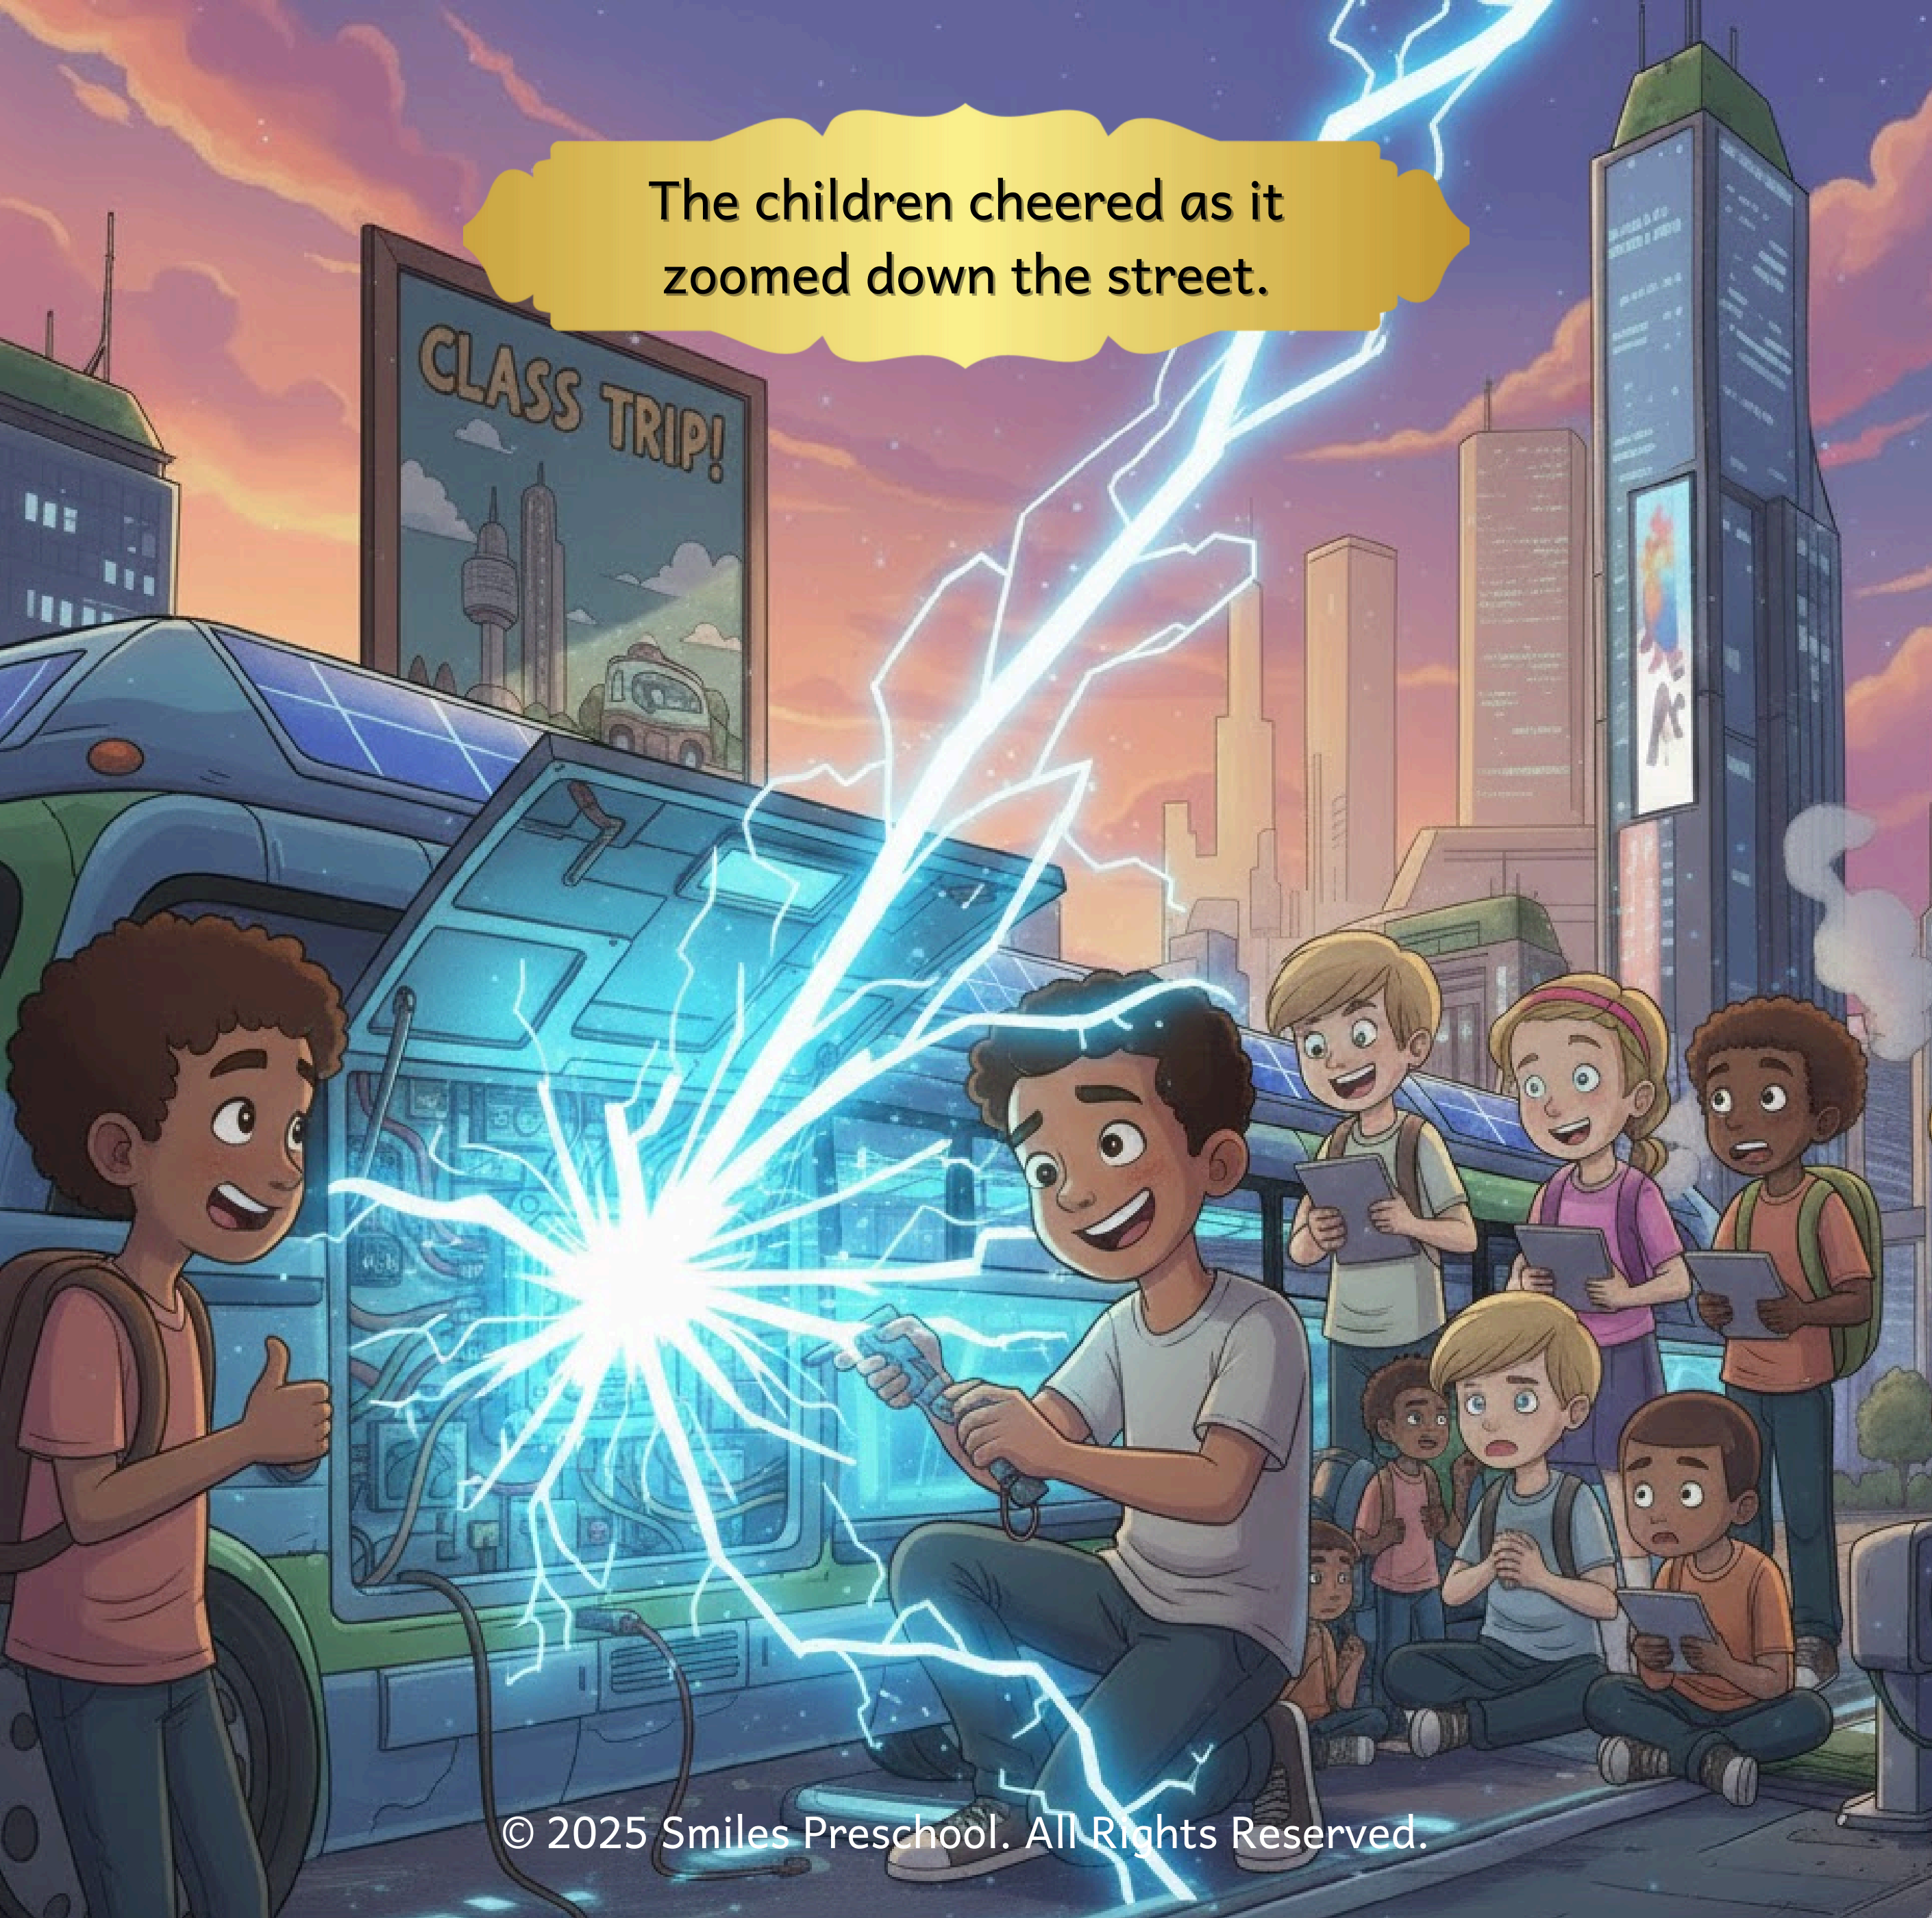

Billy rolled up his sleeves and checked the power core.

With a spark, the bus whirred back to life.

The children cheered as it zoomed down the street.

The children cheered as it zoomed down the street.

“You saved the day, Billy!” said the teacher.

You saved the day, Billy!

Billy grinned, “Heroes help in their own way.”

Heroes help in their own way.

Everyone clapped and cheered for him.

He learned that kindness is real superpower. THE END.
