THE CODING ROBOT

Geppetto built a small robot named Pinocchio.

Pinocchio loved coding games and learning new apps.

One day, he told a lie about finishing his homework.

His screen flickered and his battery drained.

The more lies he told, the dimmer he became.

When he admitted the truth, his heart light glowed.

Geppetto smiled, “Being real feels wonderful.”

Pinocchio realized honesty gives real power.

He promised to always tell the truth.

His light never dimmed again.
