

HAPPY HARVEST FESTIVAL

The Tortoise and The Hare COOK-OFF!

Harry Hare was super fast! He bounced around his kitchen, chopping carrots and stirring gravy in a flash. He felt very confident and a little bit proud.

Toby Tortoise worked slowly and carefully. He measured each ingredient with a smile, making sure everything was just right. He focused on his task, one step at a time.

Harry Hare finished quickly and looked at Toby. "Whew, that was easy!" he exclaimed. He thought he was definitely going to win!

Toby Tortoise kept stirring his sweet potato casserole. He wasn't bothered by how fast Harry was. He knew it was important to do his best, no matter what.

Soon, the judges arrived! A wise owl and a friendly fox walked in, ready to taste. Harry looked very excited, and Toby felt a little nervous, but he took a deep breath.

The fox first tried Harry's meal. "Mmm, this is tasty, but..." said the fox, making a face. "It's a little bit too salty!" Harry looked disappointed. He had rushed so much he forgot to check!

Next, they tried Toby's dish. They took a slow, thoughtful bite. "This is perfect!" exclaimed the owl. "You can taste the care in every bite!" Toby smiled. He felt proud for being patient and careful.

Harry felt a little sad and jealous. "My dish was good too!" he thought. But then, he remembered that it's okay for friends to be good at different things. He decided to be happy for Toby.

The judges announced Toby as the winner! Harry clapped for his friend. "Congratulations, Toby!" he said with a genuine smile. "Your dish really was delicious!" He felt good for being a supportive friend.

Toby and Harry hugged. Toby shared a slice of his winning pie, and Harry shared a story about his fast cooking. They learned that Thanksgiving is not about winning, but about kindness, friendship, and sharing! The end.
