

THE DAY THE CRAYONS TOOK SELFIE

It was art time at Rainbow Room Preschool!
Mia opened her crayon box and smiled. "Let's draw something amazing today!"

Inside the crayon box, Red stretched and yawned. "Another day of coloring hearts," he sighed. "I want to do something different!"

Blue giggled. "Let's draw the sky!"
Green shook his head. "No way — we always draw grass!"

Then Yellow shouted, "I know! Let's take a SELFIE!"
The crayons gasped. "A what now?"

"A selfie!" said Yellow proudly. "We'll take a picture of us!"

Red frowned. "But crayons don't take pictures — we make pictures!"
Blue shrugged. "Maybe we can do both!"

So the crayons climbed out of the box.
"Everyone line up!" said Yellow. "Say CHEESE!"

But just as Yellow clicked the button —
SNAP! The photo came out blurry!

“Oops!” giggled Pink. “Red blinked!”
“I don’t even have eyelids!” Red groaned.

"Let's try again," said Yellow. "Everyone smile BIG!"

Orange jumped too high, knocking the phone over!

Blue sighed. "We're never going to get a good picture."

Green smiled. "Maybe we need a background!"

They drew a big rainbow on the paper.
"Perfect!" said Pink. "Now we look amazing!"

"Okay, everyone ready?" said Yellow.
"Ready!" shouted all the crayons.

CLICK! The camera flashed — and this time, it worked!
The photo showed every crayon smiling with joy.

“Look how colorful we are!” said Blue.
“Look how happy we look!” said Green.

Even Red smiled. "Okay... maybe selfies are kind of fun."

Just then, Mia returned to the table.
"Hmm... who took this picture?" she wondered.

The crayons froze!
"Act natural!" whispered Blue.

B A b

Xoel
Sattre

Mia looked around. "That's funny... I don't remember taking this!"
Then she smiled. "But it's so cute!"

"Yay! We're famous!" whispered Yellow.
"Smile for the wall of fame!" said Pink.

All day long, everyone admired their picture.
"You all look so bright!" said Ms. Bloom, the teacher.

The crayons glowed with pride.
Red whispered, "Maybe tomorrow we can take a group drawing!"

"Or a crayon dance video!" said Orange.
"Or a rainbow portrait!" said Blue.

Yellow laughed. "No matter what we do, we'll always be colorful together!"

Join Mia's crayons for a bright, funny adventure about teamwork, creativity, and finding joy in who you are.

