Pip the hedgehog was very shy. He loved to watch the other animals play, but he always hid behind a big mushroom.

Pip loved to collect the sweetest, juiciest berries. He would carefully roll them back to his cozy burrow, all by himself.

One sunny morning, Pip saw a little squirrel. She was gathering nuts and looked a little shy, just like him.

The little squirrel, whose name was Squeaky, was so busy looking at her nuts that she didn't see a big rock. She tripped and all her nuts went flying!

At the very same moment, Pip tripped on a root and dropped all his berries. They rolled right down the hill and mixed with Squeaky's nuts.

Pip and Squeaky looked at each other.
They both had a big mess to clean up!
Pip took a deep breath and decided to be brave.

"I can help you," Pip squeaked. He started to carefully pick up the nuts and put them in a little pile for Squeaky.

"Thank you!" Squeaky chirped. She began to pick up the berries and put them in a neat pile for Pip.

Soon, all the nuts were with Squeaky and all the berries were with Pip. They had worked together to clean up the mess.

From that day on, Pip and Squeaky were the best of friends. They learned that helping each other was the most fun of all.
