

Violet
the Sheep Won't
Go to Sleep

This book belongs to:

The stars are out,
the moon shines bright.

It's time for bed now,
So you're tucked in tight.

Everyone's dreaming,
but you are yet to sleep.

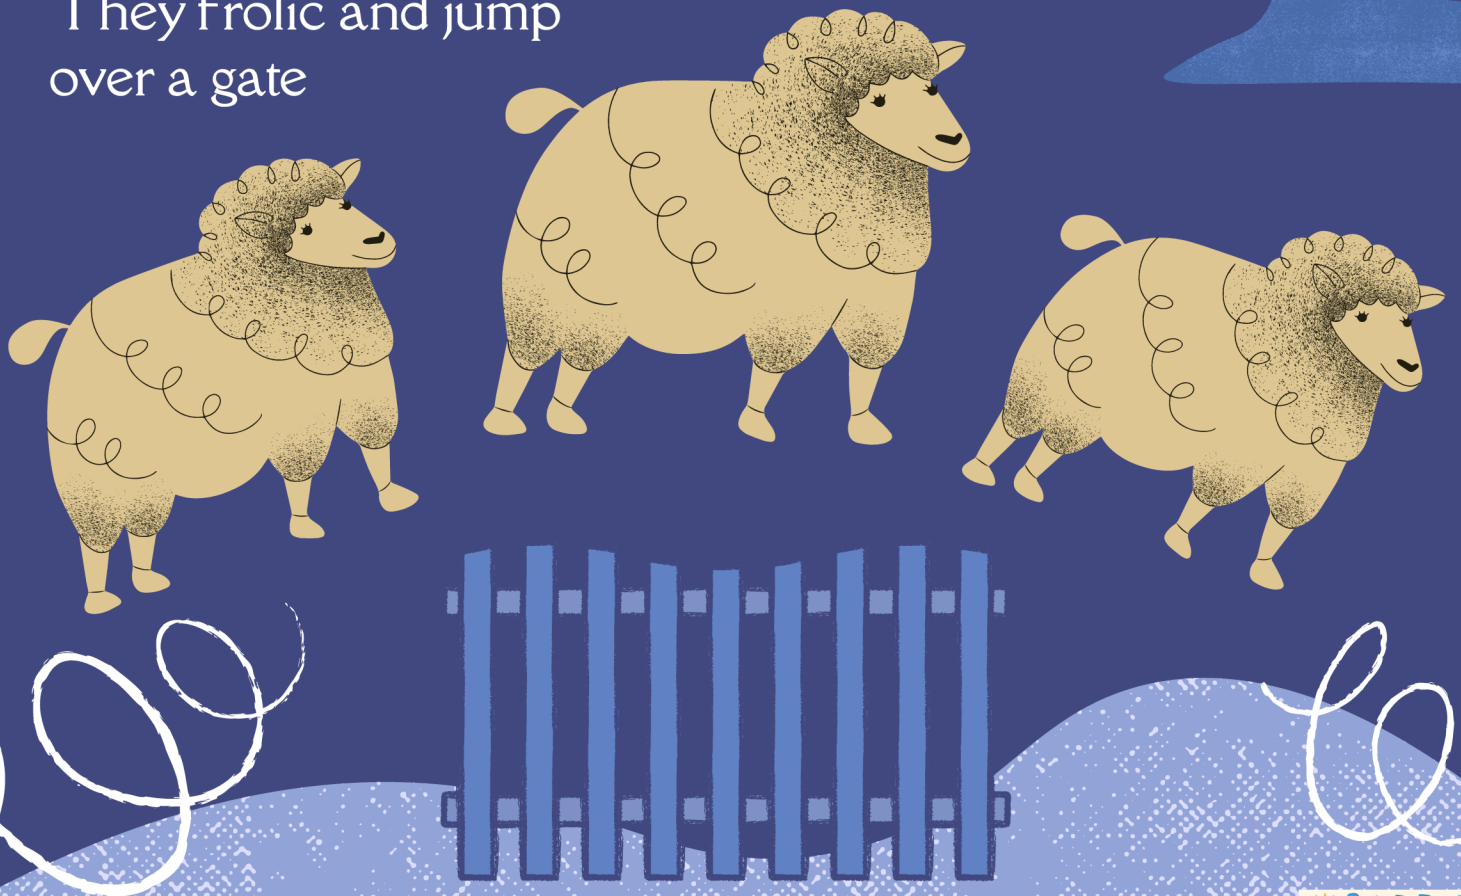

You know what to do—
It's time to count sheep!

1, 2, 3, 4

Fluffy white sheep
march into your door

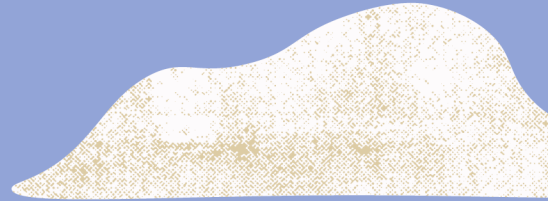

5, 6, 7, 8

They frolic and jump
over a gate

Wait a minute,
what's that you see?

There's one silly sheep
running away free!

Her eyes are wide open.
She's out and about again.

It's Violet the sheep,
the one that would not sleep!

Violet startles the cat
sleeping in the barn.

Then, she tiptoes and hides
behind a ball of yarn.

Nearby are little bunnies,
all cozy and snug.

Curled up and yawning
on a soft blue rug.

Good night, cat.
Good night, little kittens.
It's me, Violet the Sheep.
Please go back to sleep.

Where is Violet now?
There she is in the hay,

spying on snoozing horses.
One's awake and ready to neigh!

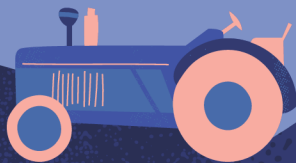

Good night, horses.

It's me, Violet the Sheep. Shh, go back to sleep.

Nearby are four-wheeled helpers:
Tractors, dump trucks, and excavators.

They're all parked and resting.
Can you see where Violet is hiding?

Good night, farm vehicles.
You'll be ready for tomorrow
if you go back to sleep.

Hoo! hoo! hoo!
Go to sleep, Violet.
We see you!

Can you count the little owls
perched on the shed?

Good night,
barn owls.

I'd still like to go around.

Moo! It will be morning soon.
Why don't you close your eyes like the moon?

How many cows are looking at Violet who is still not sleeping?

Good night,
spotted cows.

The night is too
pretty to sleep away.

The sky is pink and gold.
The moon's still out and the air is cold.
Can you count the stars in the sky,
Before their twinkle says good bye?

Silly Violet, what's that?
Are you actually lying down?
Are your eyelids getting heavy?
Are you starting to yawn?

1 yawn,
2 yawns,
3 yawns,
4.

5 yawns,
6 yawns,
7 yawns,
more.

Good night, Violet.
Good night, you silly Sheep.

Sweet dreams
you, my friend.
Let's have a good night's sleep.
