

Household Bills Renewal Tracker

Track • Review • Save

How to Use:

This tracker is designed to help you stay on top of household contracts and avoid paying more than you need to.

A list of typical services have been listed for you, feel free to add any others. Record the current provider, cost and contract end date.

The most important column is the Review Date. Aim to review your contract around 30–60 days before it is due to end. This gives you time to compare prices, negotiate with your existing provider or switch to a better deal if needed.

Use the New Quotes Obtained and Monthly Saving columns to keep track of your research. Even if you decide to stay with your current provider, knowing you've checked the market can give you confidence that you're getting a fair deal.

Remember to transfer your review dates to the Year at a Glance section of your copy of The Home Admin Hub or the printable version, so they don't sneak up on you.

Top Tip:

Don't try to review everything at once. Choose one contract each month and make it a habit. Small actions throughout the year are much easier than tackling every renewal at the last minute.

Could a bill review save you money?

Many households are paying more than they need to for utilities, broadband, mobile phones and insurance. If you'd like a second opinion, consider booking a bill review. You may be surprised by how much you could save.

Annual Renewal Calendar - write down what needs reviewing & renewing each month.
