MORE ON PRO CANVA

Please check the current Canva Terms for up to date details. As these can change

◆ AI Overview

You don't need a Canva Pro account to sell template links: both free and Pro users can share designs as templates, but Pro users can share copies of their templates, while free users can only share "edit" links, meaning customers would be changing the actual design. ⓘ

Here's a more detailed explanation:

Canva Template Sharing:

You can share Canva designs as templates by generating a template link, which allows anyone with the link to view and use the design as a template. ⓘ

Free vs. Pro:

While both free and Pro users can share designs as templates, Pro users have the ability to share copies of their templates, meaning the customer gets a copy to edit, while free users can only share an "edit" link, which means the customer is editing the original design. ⓘ

Selling Templates:

You can sell Canva templates on platforms like Etsy or your own website by providing the template link to your customers. ⓘ

Pro Elements:

If you use Canva Pro elements in your templates, customers without Pro accounts will be prompted to pay for those elements when they download or edit the template. ⓘ

Free Elements:

To avoid issues with customers needing Pro accounts, it's best to use only free elements in your templates. ⓘ

Canva Content License Agreement:

Canva's Content License Agreement allows users to use both free and Pro content to design and sell a range of products, including templates, posters, mugs, t-shirts, stickers, and other printed products. ⓘ

Canva Creators Program:

If you're a template designer, you can check out how to join Canva Creators program. ⓘ
