Personal Brand & Business Coach | Speaker | Author | Podcast Host

UNCHAINED. UNAPOLOGETIC. UNSTOPPABLE.

About Ange

For twenty years as a copywriter, Ange Dove gave other people their voice. As founder of one of Singapore's first and longest-standing copywriting agencies, she helped brands and business owners own their message and cut through the noise.

The irony? She was invisible herself, hiding behind her business brand, crippled by insecurity, leaving millions on the table, all while telling everyone else how powerful their story was.

Getting unchained from that version of herself changed everything. In 2016 she embraced a fully online business model, built an unapologetic personal brand and created a life of freedom and flexibility, running her business from anywhere, on her terms and around her lifestyle.

Now, as The Unchained Coach, she helps Gen X corporate professionals and business owners do the same. Bold, no-fluff, and rebelliously honest, Ange is done watching the most experienced generation in the room play small.

“ I help Gen X professionals find the words for who they've become – and build a brand and business that owns it.

Podcast questions

- You've said you left millions on the table by refusing to be seen. What was actually keeping you chained and what finally made you break free?
- Gen X has been called the unseen generation. Why do you think so many incredibly experienced, talented people are still hiding – and what's the cost of that invisibility?
- You took your business from $80,000 a month in overheads to just a few hundred dollars running it fully online. Walk us through that decision.
- What is the single biggest mistake Gen X professionals make when it comes to their personal brand – and what should they do instead?
- If a Gen X professional came to you today – experienced, skilled, but invisible and stuck – what are the first three things you would tell them to do?
