

Holiday Rush, No Problem!

Transforming eLearning to VILT in 30 Days

AT A GLANCE

What happens when a critical training initiative needs immediate attention during peak holiday season?

Check out how we helped a major telecommunications company get out of a time crunch on budget and on point.

CRAIG MCMICHAEL
Director of Client &
Community Engagement

CONTACT US

THE CHALLENGE

A communications technology company needed to convert approximately 20 hours of existing Rise eLearning content into a Virtual Instructor-Led Training (VILT) program. The aggressive deadline of 30 calendar days, which spanned through the busy holiday season, presented a significant challenge, requiring a highly efficient and adaptable approach from our team.

THE SOLUTION

Understanding the critical nature of the timeline, our team prioritized clear communication and a meticulous development process. Our focus included:

- Content Analysis: A thorough examination of the existing Rise modules to identify key learning objectives and instructional elements suitable for VILT delivery.
- Visual Design: Adapting the visual elements from the Rise modules for optimal presentation within the VILT platform.
- Quality Assurance: By catching errors early, QA reduced revision needs, freeing reviewers to focus on higher-level aspects.

THE RESULTS

We successfully delivered the VILT program within the aggressive 30-day timeframe and remained within budget constraints. The communication technology teams were highly impressed with the conversion quality, praising our attention to detail, clear communication, and efficient project management. The initial project's success led to two additional VILT conversions throughout the latter half of 2023 and into the first quarter of 2024.