

Hang In There

You are a blip in the timeline of the universe and you still remembered alt text. Iconic.

You are not the bottleneck. You are the duct tape.

You wrote clear learning objectives on the first try. That's elite behavior.

In the grand scheme of the cosmos, this Rise module is totally fine.

You used adult learning principles in a meeting. You are like...so smart.

No one noticed the typo. And if they did, they're the problem now.

You survived v1, v2, v3, and v-final-FINAL.

Even a flaming trash pile gives off light.

When one module closes, another draft opens.

Let go and let the facilitator guide.

You put the "win" in "when will this nightmare end."

No one actually knows what we do. So don't sweat it.

