Elementor

This is a popular page builder on WordPress. This is because users only have to drag and drop to build pages on their website and get to bypass coding.

Elementor offers every affiliate a 50% commission per sale. Elementor has a reliable affiliate team, provide their affiliates with logos, banners, and resources. Affiliate marketers rate their affiliate marketing program as having excellent services.

Hostinger

This web hosting platform is prominent for its low-cost services. As an affiliate, you earn 60% of every sale made. They equip their affiliates with the toolkit and banners in getting started as an affiliate. Also, Hostinger has 90% discount offers that make their products appealing! That equals high conversion rates and higher clicks for you.

Amazon Affiliate Program

Amazon is the program we'll recommend for starters. All you need to have is a website or simply being a blogger. Also, it's free to join!

Once you sign up and they approve your affiliate account, you can place Amazon affiliate links on your website. If customers buy through that link, Amazon pays your referral fees.

Share a Sale

This recognized affiliate marketing network has earned people's trust, having been in the industry for about two decades. Share a Sale's affiliates earned up to $1 billion in their previous financial year.

Share a Sale has about 4,500 programs that you can promote and you'll certainly find a niche for your blog. This platform has special deals and holiday programs, a user-friendly dashboard and up to $100,000 in commissions in a program.

ClickBank

This platform hosts many merchants that you can choose to promote. With over $4 billion in commissions earned for over 20 years, you'll have a wide range of options. Plus, it's easy to navigate their product database once you become a promoter.

eBay Partner Network

About 187 million users use eBay as their online store [\[1\]](#). With eBay, you determine the best affiliate model that suits your business. Afterwards, you integrate eBay's global inventory into your website. Once your audience purchases an item, you get paid.

Shopify Affiliate Program

This is the foremost e-commerce software for online retailers. You'll educate entrepreneurs to employ Shopify for their online business and earn a commission for those referrals.

For every successful merchant they refer to Shopify, affiliates earn a 200% bounty. This means you can earn 2x the monthly plan price selected by the merchant you referred after they have been active for 2 months [\[2\]](#).

Lead Pages Affiliate Partnership Program

Lead pages allows people who have websites and sell digital products to ~~create~~ landing pages for their businesses. If your audience sells digital services, then this is a program to promote to them.

You earn a 30% recurring commission as long as that customer keeps purchasing from Lead Pages.

Fiverr

Fiverr is an online marketplace for freelance services that is present in 160 countries with 5.5 million users. Its easy-to-use dashboard and access to helpful support are what we like about this program.

DFO Global

You'll receive high payouts while promoting e-commerce offers. DFO Global boasts of international offers, expert managers and a wide range of e-commerce products to choose from. However, you can only begin publishing after being vetted by the traffic team.

Conclusion

You don't have to be on all affiliate programs before making money. Identify your audience, try out different programs before selecting the best fit for you. Good luck in your journey into affiliate marketing!
