Talkshow Co-Creator & Host

Co-creator, Producer and Host of Singapore's first ever live in-person talkshow.

When leaders and teams own their voice, they create a more dynamic workplace, together with more innovative ideas and greater profits.

When leaders are able to intentionally create an environment where every employee can Own their Voice, this happens:

- Creative and bold ideas emerge, a more innovative culture is fostered.
 - (In an AI world, organisations now prioritise human creativity to stay competitive. – World Economic Forum, 2023)
- Confident communicators are better advocates for the organisation, improving brand image and sales.
 - In 2025, the average attention span will shrink further as digital noise increases. Yet, research shows storytelling and vocal charisma increase retention by up to 22 times (Stanford, 2024).
- Open and honest conversations, greater productivity, culture of learning
- Deeper relationships, connected and diverse teams.

Own Your Voice Methodology

This is my unique process that blends inner and outer work. I use this in my coaching, keynotes and workshops.

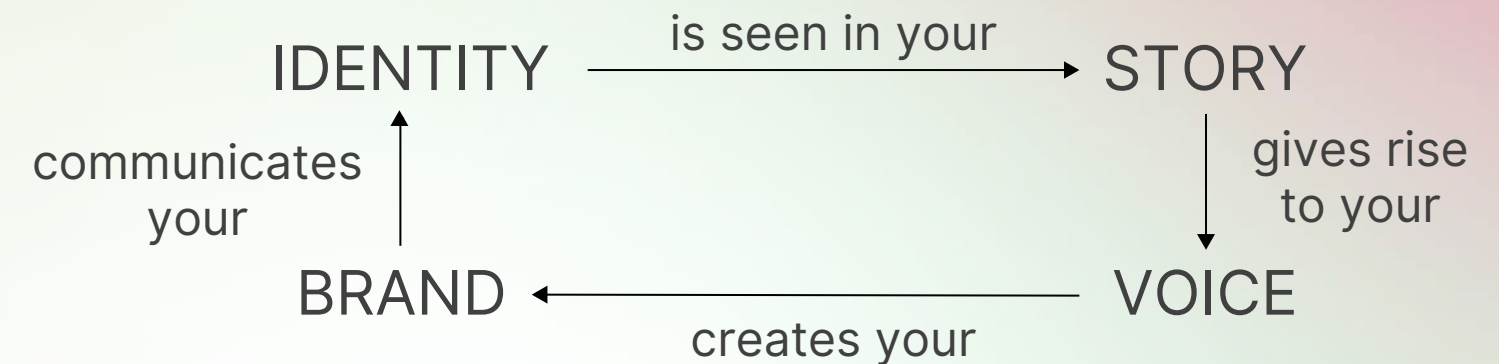

1. Rewire Beliefs

Learning how to respond instead of react to fear when asked to use your voice.

1. Build your awareness muscle. Grow the habit of reframing your limiting beliefs.
2. Coach yourself.

2. Awaken Your Authentic Self

Know yourself, trust yourself, speak with conviction and alignment.

3. Embody Your Unique Voice

Master simple frameworks backed by evergreen communication principles to speak with impact and authenticity.

1. Storytelling
2. Presentation Skills
3. Art of Networking
4. Interpersonal Communication

4. Magnify Your Impact

Master strategic intuition to speak specifically to your ideal audience and build a magnetic brand.

1. Embody Your Vision and Lead Your Community
2. Aligned Marketing + Content
3. Sales (but not icky)
4. Build thought leadership

I've used my Own Your Voice Methodology to coach and teach over 30 of my past private coachees to go from fear of speaking up to speaking with confidence and building their brand with authentic impact. I've also done the same with teams in various MNCs.

As part of the Ecolab Development Week, we decided to arrange an in-office session to encourage colleagues to return back to office interact and engage. We came across Rae's various workshops online and felt that it fits our objective. We were grateful for engaging with her and everyone had an enjoyable session on "Creating impactful connections"

Rae is very easy to work with, and she helped to curate the content to fit in the previous speaker session. Through various small group activities and using relatable and simple examples we were able to practice our self introduction, think through our "buffet table" to enable purposeful connections and conversations. This session allows very good interaction for everyone especially when covid has made it more challenging. Many positive feedback and takeaways and we love her warm personality and positive energy. Highly recommended!

I attended a workshop conducted by Rae about Building Better Connections and the Power of Storytelling earlier this year and it was possibly the most engaging workshop I've attended in recent memory. She exemplified the content that she was sharing with us and her authenticity shone through.

In addition, I love that there were guided breakout sessions within the workshop (even though it wasn't a particularly long workshop). It gave us a chance to practice her approach there and then. Cementing it to memory.

Now I constantly use her approach when engaging with people, turning small talk into real talk.

As a member of the organizing committee of IQVIA Women Initiative Network (WIN), I had the pleasure of working with Rae when we engaged her to conduct a workshop on Building Better Connections and the Power of Storytelling.

I came across Rae Fung during a networking event and find her content in social media relatable. She was responsive, enthusiastic, and easy to work with. She understood our needs and executed the content very well.

Rae possesses a remarkable ability to engage participants by asking relevant questions and providing concise yet insightful responses. The implementation of small breakout groups during the workshop also fostered meaningful conversations among our colleagues. One key takeaway from her session was the concept of using bridging questions to establish connections on deeper topics. Additionally, her practical tips on crafting personal stories—from where you are now, to where you were in the past, identifying turning points, and concluding with understanding your "why" and the lessons learned—were invaluable. People are hungry for content like this, especially in our increasingly disconnected post pandemic world. Her workshop aligned with our objectives of creating an inspiring and healthy environment within our company.

As young as she may be, she is a compelling speaker and insightful trainer, she radiates positive energy and effectively delves into the topics covered in a given timeframe. Highly recommended!

Rae is not just an engaging speaker; she exudes an infectious enthusiasm that instantly captivates her audience. Throughout her keynote, she shared invaluable insights on effectively communicating our thoughts and ideas, all while emphasizing the importance of embracing vulnerability.

What truly sets Rae apart is her unwavering commitment to celebrating our individual quirks and idiosyncrasies. She reminded us that it's our uniqueness that grants us a perspective that no one else can offer. Her message resonated deeply with me when she eloquently discussed the strength found in embracing our "weirdness." It was a powerful reminder that our perceived weaknesses can be transformed into our greatest strengths.

What sets Rae apart even further is her ability to channel her own past struggles into present-day strengths. Her personal journey serves as an inspiring example for others, encouraging them to confront their unique challenges with courage and resilience.

I eagerly look forward to attending more of Rae's life-empowering keynotes in the future. Her blend of enthusiasm, vulnerability, and practical wisdom makes her a truly exceptional speaker, and I believe her messages have the potential to positively impact countless lives.

Before attending Rae's Own Your Voice Bootcamp, i felt unsure about how to use my voice powerfully to introduce myself and inspire others using my experiences. I was often held back by my fears of how people would judge me when i spoke what i truly felt. However, after attending the bootcamp, i realised that many of us have our own fears of speaking, and it is something i can overcome slowly with practise. Rae also shared a 3-steps framework on how we can initiate & go deep into real conversations during networking, which gave me confidence for future networking opportunities. I also learnt how i can share my life experiences powerfully through stories, to inspire & attract opportunities for myself. One of my biggest takeaway was the reminder that networking is not just about receiving from others all the time, but also bearing in mind the ways we can give back to the person we speak to. Overall, i would say that the bootcamp has been very beneficial for my overall growth - not only in the area of speaking, but also in helping me understand myself better.

Rae's bootcamp is different because Rae goes beyond just teaching public speaking strategies. She puts alot of effort & time into helping participants understand why they might fear using their voice & sees it as an opportunity to help us grow as a person - which is really admirable.

I would recommend my friends to attend Rae's future workshops/bootcamps because she is really genuine in wanting to help people grow not only in their speaking skills but also overall growth as a person. I feel that she is also very approachable & i appreciate her positive energy whenever she gives talks.

I had the pleasure of attending a training session led by Rae in 2021, and I can confidently say that she is an excellent trainer. Not only is Rae knowledgeable in her field, but she is also kind, helpful, and insightful.

One of the most powerful insights I gained from Rae's training was the importance of incorporating drama and emotion in the opening line. This was a game-changer for me, as I realized that capturing the audience's attention from the start can make all the difference in a presentation.

Thanks to Rae's guidance, I was able to apply this insight to a pitch competition for my social enterprise. I'm thrilled to say that I won the competition and secured early seed funding for my venture.

Overall, I highly recommend Rae as a trainer. Her expertise and kindness make her an exceptional asset to any learning experience.

Rae speaks with BOLDNESS. She is one of the most successful, fearless, enthusiastic, inspiring, and uplifting women I know. She brings innovative ideas and offers tips on all things personal branding, public speaking, networking, making small conversations with strangers, etc! What stood out to me about Rae is her ability to share a story in a way that resonates with everyone. She leads with vulnerability and passion! As the Founder of HEARO, I hosted a workshop, where she was invited to speak about "5 Steps to Build a Roadmap After College". She gave ACTIONABLE tips and ways for others to create a path for themselves. She also participated in one of my Career Wellness series where she gave insights on how to navigate the social world through her unique approach to connection-building. If you are looking to build your personal branding, enhance your public speaking, develop leadership/networking skills, I would 100% recommend anyone to her coaching business. Go book a consultation call with her!! She's amazing, and a GREAT person to work with!!

Rae is a confident and thought-provoking speaker. Throughout her keynote, she shared refreshing perspectives that added value to what I already know. I felt very inspired and deeply energized to implement some of the concepts that she shared. I was really blown away by her enthusiasm and level of maturity for her age. What makes Rae different is that she is engaging and very relatable. I'm looking forward to learning more from her through her other sharings.

I attended Rae's Own Your Voice Bootcamp in October 2022 and was blown away by how much I learned and unlearned about what makes someone a good speaker and communicator in both their personal and professional life.

Before the Bootcamp, I believed that in order to be a compelling communicator, I had to put on a mask of confidence, use 1001 public speaking techniques for presentations, and be someone I was not. However, the Bootcamp showed me that being a better speaker and communicator comes from within, and that true confidence comes from being my authentic self when connecting with others.

What makes Rae's Bootcamp different is her person-centred approach and focus on the heart of the matter. She goes beyond the 'what' and 'how' of being a better communicator, and empowers you through self-awareness of what makes you a unique and valued individual.

For anyone who is doubtful of the power of your own voice, I will definitely recommend you to join the Own Your Voice Bootcamp :)

Rae was our speaker at the Young Women's Leadership Connection Pay-it-Forward Mentorship Program 2023 Workshop, where she spoke about "Growth Mindset through Owning Your Story".

During this workshop, I had the privilege of observing her exceptional ability to engage the students. Her passion for empowering young individuals to embrace their personal narratives and leverage them for success was evident in every aspect of her presentation - she drew from her personal experiences to inspire the audience.

Rae's communication style was both warm and approachable, creating a safe and inclusive environment for students to open up and share their stories. Her ability to connect with the audience on a personal level fostered a strong sense of trust and camaraderie throughout the workshop. It allowed the participants to open up and own their narratives in a small group setting.

I wholeheartedly recommend Rae as a workshop facilitator/speaker and advocate for personal growth. I'm certain you will enjoy working with and learning from her as much as I did.

Rae was the emcee at the Youth Co:Lab Summit 2023 in Bangkok, a summit organised by UNDP and Citi that I had the pleasure of attending and speaking at. Rae was the master emcee, with an audience of over 300 global entrepreneurs, business leaders, government and the UN.

With so much on the line for these participants, Rae was able to engage, lead and facilitate one of the most impressive events in South East Asia.

What truly sets Rae apart is her ability to engage diverse audiences from all over the world.

I recently had the pleasure of attending the Own Your Voice Show, a live talk show co-created and hosted by Rae, and I was blown away by her inspiring personal success story. As she shared her journey to mastering public speaking and communication skills, I was struck by her passion, drive, and unwavering commitment to excellence. Her story served as an inspiration for me to find my own potential and set my sights on distant achievements.

Rae is not only an exceptional host and speaking coach, but also an outstanding strategist with a unique ability to connect with others. Her communicative energy, sociability, and approachability make her a remarkable individual, and her leadership abilities are truly remarkable. What sets Rae apart from others in her field is her unwavering commitment to helping others discover their own voices and chart their own paths to success. Her dedication to this mission is evident in everything she does, from her approach to coaching to her engaging and inspiring live events.

Overall, I have no doubt that Rae has the skills and expertise to help others reach their full potential, and I highly recommend her to anyone looking to improve their public speaking and communication skills.
