

‘Honouring You’

A Daily Check-in to keep the promises you tell yourself

When you check in with yourself, you send a powerful message: my word matters. Honouring You is about building trust with yourself, promise by promise, moment by moment. It's not about grand gestures, but about the small daily acts that remind you that you are worthy of your own commitment. Each check-in is a chance to realign, to choose yourself, and to step forward with confidence.

My name is Lisa King, I am a Selfloveologist , and I would have loved to have had this resource when I was flying around, making sure everyone else was okay. Working myself into the ground, and having my PhD in People Pleasing. And you've guessed it, checking in on me was never at the forefront of my mind at all, EVER. That is why I am passionate to share the importance of making sure you are checking in on you. After multiple burnouts, and a life changing breakdown, I truly know the importance of making sure you are filling your own cup, putting the oxygen mask on yourself, because without it, others just get whats left of you, and not the best of you.

Is it time to begin that journey, or, maybe you just need reminding of the importance of checking in on you. Have you had something significant happen? Maybe, you feel something significant may happen if you do not make positive change now, then I promise you, this will be a priceless resource for you.

3. Your Language Daily Check-In

Reminding you that how you speak to yourself has a huge impact on your day. And having a daily check in to ensure your self talk doesn't spiral, is PRICELESS.

Introduction to 'Honouring You'

How many times have you sat down at the end of the day and thought to yourself, 'Where has the time gone', 'I haven't done this..' 'I haven't done that...' and then you start worrying about all the things you have to do tomorrow. Your stress levels go up, your body is agitated and you are now worrying about tomorrow, and you haven't even got to the end of today yet. How do I know, because I've been there, multiple times before.

This is why I have created 'Honouring You' - these are daily check-ins, because without them I believe you are not helping yourselves to live your most energised, truest, and most regulated selves. You are running your days on autopilot, same st different day ring a bell? And I truly believe that by allocating a few very short pauses in your day, you can significantly improve the quality of your day, your health and your mental wellbeing. Not bad for 15 minutes a day.

Four simple, short check-ins throughout your day, pausing to check-in, to take stock, and to realign and reconnect to yourself. This not only stops things from spiralling, it is also a fantastic way to keep yourself on track, accountable, and who knows, you may even want to celebrate your achievements at the end of the day.

How to Use 'Honouring You'

'I just don't have enough time...'

HEAR ME OUT. There are 1440 minutes in a day. Let's say you have 8 hours sleep, I know, that's more than you normally have. Then that's a bonus, as that means you'll have even more time to Honour Yourself and do your check-ins :-). Anyway back to the timings. Even if you have those 8 hours sleep, that's 480 minutes sleeping, that still leaves you 960 minutes in your day. Let's say you do an 8 hour working/busy personal day, (and I know you may do more, or less than that, that's another 480 minutes off of the time. That still leaves you with another 480 minutes, that's 8 hours worth of minutes to fit in just 15 minutes for your check-ins.

The problem is it's never about the time you have, it is about the fact that you haven't YET started to PRIORITISE YOU, for those 15 minutes a day. And that is about to change.

I get it, I really do. You feel it's selfish, it's lazy, there's other things you could be doing, it's not a priority, AND THERE LIES THE PROBLEM. We are conditioned/programmed to believe that self care is selfish, that we have to put others first. So here's a question, if you burnout, have a breakdown, fall ill, cannot look after others, what happens then? What if I told you that you could avoid all of that simply by using those 15 minutes to do these check-ins. If at first you cannot do it for yourself, do it for those in your life that need you, the healthier you, the more energised you. Do it for them. I might sound harsh, I say it with LOVE, I truly do, it's just that sometimes we need stronger words to get the message across. And I'm not going to hold back because you are important, you are loved, and you are needed. So, let's get started XXXXX

Next Steps...

You will see on the next couple of pages the Language daily check-in, taken from the 'Honouring You' Daily Check-ins Series.

Follow the process below for the check-in: (I repeat it on the check-ins too)

1. Before you actually do the practical step, you complete the identity statement whilst doing the PRE-action nervous system action. This is to set yourself up to win, before you take action.
2. Choose which one of the three practical steps you are going to do for that particular check-in.
3. Then you actually DO the practical step.
4. The last piece is to do the POST action for your nervous system, this is to remind yourself that you are safe after completing the step. You have then completed the cycle from start to finish.

01 Morning Check-in

Honouring My Words

Set the Inner Tone before the world does

1-Say this pre-action identity statement with nervous system action - With hand on your heart say - 'I am someone who speaks to myself in a way that helps me function, not freeze.'

2-Choose one of the three practical steps below that feels supportive:

- Replace 'I have to' with 'I get to try.'
- Replace 'I'm behind' with 'I'm doing the best I can.'
- Add 'right now' to any worries or concerns, 'This feels challenging right now.'

3-Now do the step you chose from the three practical steps above.

4-Post-action nervous system reminder - Unclench your jaw. Say 'Gentle Language equals safer body.'

02 Midday Check-in

Honouring My Words

Catch The Spiral Language

1-Say this pre-action identity statement with nervous system action - With hand on your heart say - 'I am someone who notices my tone before believing my thoughts.'

2-Choose one of the three practical steps below that feels supportive:

- Add 'I'm learning' after any self-criticism.
- Swap 'This is a Disaster' with 'This is uncomfortable.'
- Ask 'Would I say this to someone I care about?'

3-Now do the step you chose from the three practical steps above.

4-Post-action nervous system reminder - Slow exhale: 'Not every thought is a command.'

03 Afternoon Check-in

Honouring My Words

When Self-Talk Turns Harsh

1-Say this pre-action identity statement with nervous system action - With hand on your heart say - 'I am someone who can guide myself, not bully myself.'

2-Choose one of the three practical steps below that feels supportive:

- Replace 'What's wrong with me?' with 'What do I need?'
- Add 'of course' - 'Of course this feels challenging.'
- Say your name kindly in a sentence.

3-Now do the step you chose from the three practical steps above.

4-Post-action nervous system reminder - Relax your shoulders: 'Support works better than pressure.'

04 Evening Check-in

Honouring My Words

Close the day without verbal self-attacks

1-Say this pre-action identity statement with nervous system action - With hand on your heart say - 'I am someone who speaks to myself like someone worth caring for.'

2-Choose one of the three practical steps below that feels supportive:

- Replace replay thoughts with: 'I did what I could do with what I had.'
- Say 'Nothing else is required of me tonight.'
- Thank yourself for one effort.

3-Now do the step you chose from the three practical steps above.

4-Post-action nervous system reminder - Long exhale: 'My inner voice can be a safe place.'
