

MEGA PRACTICE! STRESS RULES

IN ENGLISH

Rule: Suffixes

I think that report requires re-examination
The movie was filled with stereotypical characters
The journalistic correspondent was on the scene
National Geographic is known for its geographical videography
It's incomprehensible that the mathematician got the wrong answer
This neighborhood is filled with entertainment
She's very conscientious and independent

Rule: Letters & Acronyms

The doctors have to get a DNR code ASAP
He went AWOL after he finished his MBA
All ESL students need to bring their ID before they can enter the TESL exam room
You need a PHD before you can work at NASA
The head of the HR department went MIA
Just FYI, she's really into DIY projects

Rule: Compounds

He accidentally broke the living room window with a baseball
My son would never act up in class
The bank teller kept typing on the keyboard
My water bottle spilled all over my science test

Rule: Self pronouns

She completed the project all by herself
He grows his vegetables himself
Did you paint the house all by yourself?
I'll read the policy myself this week
The kids made you breakfast all by themselves

Rule: Roads & Streets

Drive down Elm Street and make a left past Plane Drive.
Have you ever driven by sunset Boulevard?
Read Road and Seaway Avenue intersect.

PROactive
PRONUNCIATION

www.proactivepronunciation.com

MEGA PRACTICE!

STRESS RULES

IN

ENGLISH

Rule: French Origin

The auctioneer just bought a Corvette
 The volunteer completed the questionnaire
 I'm going to begin a career as an engineer
 That's a really unique technique to use
 There's a blockade in front of the gaming arcade
 It's fun to reminisce about the good old days

Rule: Ly and Er Endings

The passengers patiently waited for their train
 The lecturer is currently unavailable
 I certainly remember the beautiful lavender fields
 The reporter left the room quietly
Hopefully my brother will be able to make it there on time

Rule: Nouns/Verbs/Prepositions/Adjectives

He'll present to the Master of ceremonies
 I suspect that all the old records are scratched
 The supervisor was content with the content of the policy
 I'll present the entire presentation at our next meeting
 Did security permit you to enter without your permit?
 She bought a shiny amber stone
 She hung a large Yellow curtain above the window
 I'll provide the music and entertainment for the party
 It's just around the corner
 Don't forget to include the footnotes

PROactive
PRONUNCIATION

www.proactivepronunciation.com